Investment Objectives

With the "long/short" alignment the ACF Fund endeavours to achieve above-average returns.

A = Active

To achieve this goal there will be no restrictions with regards the type of the securities and the respective share of a security in the fund volumes. This provides the required freedom for reacting to different phases of the economic development.

C = Classical

The "long/short" strategy includes the approach for achieving returns for the fund during falling and rising markets. If an instrument traded on the stock exchange is undervalued, it will be acquired in order to achieve a price gain thereof (Long). If a price increase is not realistic, there is the option of selling this instrument "empty". Only at a later date will this instrument be acquired. Then, however, at a lower value (short).

F = Flexible

The purpose of this investment approach is for the fund to be able to react to the market trends.

In addition, the ACF Fund will focus on a few individual items. This allows the Fund to invest in the market at any time or only to feature liquid assets. This flexibility serves to both maximize the return and to minimize the risk for investing at a point in time considered to be inconvenient from the viewpoint of ACF Fund.

IX. Information for investors

The organ of publication of the fund is the website of the Fund administrator www.fortuna.vc. Significant changes to the complete prospectus are published in the organ of publication. The fund publishes the issue and redemption prices in the organ of publication. The prices are published monthly. The prospectus and the current annual and interim reports may be obtained free of charge from the fund administration in physical form or www.fortuna.vc.

X. Valuation principles

In the case of investments listed on a stock exchange or traded on a regulated market open to the public, the market value shall be the price. In all other cases, the market value of a tangible asset or right shall be the price that would probably be attained if a careful sale were made at the time of the estimate. If a security is listed on several stock exchanges, the last available listing on the stock exchange that represents the major market for this security will apply.

Securities which are not listed on an official stock exchange, but which are traded on another regulated market which is recognised, open to the public and operating in a due and orderly fashion, are valued at the last available price on this market. If these prices do not conform to market conditions, the securities, as in the case of any other legally permitted assets, shall be valued at a price specified by the Board of Directors acting in good faith on the basis of the probable sales price that could be attained. Liquid assets are valued at their nominal value plus accrued interest.

XI. Matters of particular business or legal significance

None
